Sandsy's

By Gardner Hunting "Apt to be one of the most popular of the year's juveniles. For, more than almost any other, it is a real boy's book. There is everything in it that will delight the boy: warm hearts, a black eye, a little touch of trickery and mystery, a wholesome dose of ethics, a love of dogs and ragmuffins, fights and fun—all that a boy most longs for. . . It is, above all, a live book and one to keep a boy interested every minute of its reading."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

The book is full of interest and adventure, and seems to me much better fare for boys than the present style of yarn, where electricity and machinery take the place of personal courage and indifference to danger."—N. Y. Herald.

Clearing the Seas By Donal H. Haines

By Uonal n. names

"An admirable story for young readers, having an international conflict as its theme, is 'Clearing the Seas.' It is the story of a supposed naval war between the United States and a foreign power. Two boys who had enlisted in the navy shortly before the sudden outbreak of hostilities with the Blues found themselves in the midst of the first great battle. . Other turilling fights in submarines and the final gigantic battle of the two fleets picture vividity the condition of modern marine warfare."—
